Wandering into San José

The city is a dynamic space where history, architecture, biology, society, and culture, among other things are woven, so building a specific landscape with many realities. The city is known through direct contact and in situ experimentation.

The route is designed to travel through San José. Walking is our means of transportation, so having direct contact with people, architecture, climate, and the landscape, as a whole. It is intended to be an activity that involves everyone’s participation, since we all have our own say as to the world’s cities.
Irazú Volcano, Guayabo National Monument, Ujarras Ruins, Orosi Valley

Cartago is one of the seven provinces of Costa Rica. It is located in the center of the country. Its main city, Cartago, was founded in 1563 by Juan Vásquez de Coronado and was the capital of Costa Rica until 1823. Its geography reveals a sequence of very attractive landscapes.

The tour includes:

- Irazú Volcano National Park: Craters and Prusia forest.
- Guayabo National Monument: This is an archaeological site located 19 km northeast from Turrialba.
- Orosi Valley: This small town offers travelers an ideal place to see some of the country’s historical landmarks.
- Ruins of Ujarrás: It is the oldest colonial church in the country.

University of Costa Rica 2016

The University of Costa Rica is the largest and oldest university in the country (inhabited by about 5 million people). Its leadership and achievements are internationally recognized. It has a high academic quality:

- 486 academic options
- 240 undergraduate programs
- 246 graduate programs
- 10 PhD Programs

It receives international faculty and students every year through bilateral academic agreements, networks, and others. Our visiting population enjoys access to the university’s facilities and an ideal learning and research environment. Its curricula are in continuous self-assessment, evaluation, and accreditation, both nationally and internationally.

UCR is one of the top-ranked universities in Latin America. It offers the most comprehensive academic programs in all areas of knowledge and contributes with 60% of scientific production in Central America and 70% of the research conducted in Costa Rica.

UCR is focused on the internationalization of its activities. Every year, our Visiting Scholars Program invites more than 200 professors from abroad for short periods. It also supports and promotes the continuous exchange of an annual average of 400 students.
